

WILL IMPORT DAIRY CATTLE

County Agent Making Plans to Ship in Guernseys From East.

Plans are under way to give the local dairymen an opportunity to import dairy cattle, said Weber County Agent W. P. Thomas, last night. The importation of Guernsey cattle from Guernsey Island, is to be made this fall through the Utah Guernsey Cattle Association. A number of local dairymen have ordered for this shipment. Arrangements are also being made for a shipment from Wisconsin of both grade and pure-bred dairy cattle. More than a carload has already been listed for grade Guernseys.

In answer to a communication, the county agent from Waukesha county, Wis., has written W. Preston Thomas as follows:

"In reply to your letter, relative to high grade Holstein and Guernsey cows, will say that we have a large number for sale in Waukesha county, and the prices will range from $75.00 to $125.00, for grade cows, depending, of course, upon the age, size, individuality and nearness to freshening. Yesterday a good load was shipped from here to Kansas at an average of $85. I think it is quite possible to obtain another load just as good for the same money. However, if you want the outstanding cows, you will have to pay a little more money for them. Of course yearling heifers will sell for less money and unbreed yearlings can be bought for $45 to $65. Two-year-old heifers, heavy stringers will cost from $65 to $85.

"The above prices apply to Holsteins in particular, and for Guernseys the price is from $10 to $15 higher. The demand for Guernsey cattle this year seems to be much stronger than usual. Therefore the price is a little higher."

Any one interested in purchasing cattle from Wisconsin, or from Guernsey Island, are invited to communicate with Mr. Thomas or John Wilson at Eden.

UTAH A. C. MAY GET CALIFORNIA DEBATE

LOGAN, Oct. 28.—According to W. J. Merrill, graduate manager of debating at the Utah Agricultural college, arrangements for a debate with the University of Southern California at Los Angeles are nearing completion. Only the details remain to be worked out.

Debating tryouts, to determine who will represent the college in its annual triangular debates on January 26, with the University of Utah and the Brigham Young University, will be held November 15. About 20 students are to take part in debates on the question.

"Resolved, That the interest of the people of the western states would be best secured by the international commerce commission upholding a recent decision of the United States supreme court in the Union Pacific and Pacific and Southern Pacific controversy." Exceptional interest will be taken in the tryouts this year as the team which will go to California will be chosen from the debaters who take part in the triangular debates.

FOREST MEN ALSO FIGURE IN CRASH

F. J. Ryder, administrative assistant district Four of the forest service, his wife, and son Franklin, accompanied by M. S. Wright, in charge of maps and surveys, district Four, forest service, narrowly escaped serious injury at the intersection of Washington avenue and Twenty-fifth street Friday night when the automobile they were in was struck by the automobile driven by C. A. Fallentine, apartment 10, Paine & Hurst building.

Fallentine was driving south on Washington avenue, when he saw the run-away street car in charge of J. H. Butler, 426 Twenty-second street, out of control and rapidly backing down the Twenty-fifth street hill.

He attempted to turn west on Twenty-fifth street and in so doing, his automobile, a Ford coupe, was struck by the street car, the impact throwing it against the Overland driven by Ryder.

The car was stopped at the intersection, facing west until the line of automobiles on the west side of Washington avenue should pass to the south.

Both rear fenders of the Ryder car were smashed, the bumper torn off, the rear light smashed and the rear of the car damaged. The occupants, though severely shaken up, escaped without injury.

The car was ordered to the repair shop by the street car company yesterday forenoon.

A machine which will make ice in 20 minutes at home and can be operated by hand, is being used in England.

DAIRYING GAINS IN GEM STATE

E. F. Rinehart of Idaho A. C. Confers With Ogden Stock Show Men.

E. F. Rinehart, in charge of animal husbandry at the University of Idaho and the Idaho Agricultural college, was an Ogden visitor Saturday.

Mr. Rinehart is a director of the Ogden Livestock show, and was one of the judges of the dairy cattle at the 1922 show.

At the Ogden, he conferred with Secretary Jesse S. Richards and said that Idaho and the northwest would be well represented at the coming show, which will be held here in January.

The dairy industry in Idaho is going forward rapidly, Mr. Rinehart said last night. This is especially true in the Twin Falls section of the north side tract.

Growth of this industry is steady and substantial and the men interested expect good returns, said Mr. Rinehart.

Idaho is also building up her feeding industry, which for many years was an established industry, but which fell down during the war. Farmers in many parts of the state are feeling optimistic over the future prospects in many parts being in particularly bright.

Finds Likkered Men; No Likker; Cop Is Puzzled

Ogden police officials are wondering where the men that stagger into the Ogden Beer hall, 152 Twenty-fifth street, obtain their liquor.

Following a number of raids at that place, which failed to disclose any liquor, Chief of Police Curtis Allison ordered Patrolman Will Richardson station at the place yesterday.

Patrolman Richardson took up his station and remained on the job, watching everything that went on. He saw no liquor, but while watching the place, his attention was attracted by a shuffling noise in the front of the establishment, where he found a man under the influence of liquor staggering into the room from the street.

He arrested him. Shortly afterwards another man under the influence of liquor staggered into the soft drink parlor.

Patrolman Richardson arrested him. Shortly afterwards another man under the influence of liquor made his way uncertainly into the place.

Patrolman Richardson looked him over, and muttered "This is getting to be a habit, and arrested him."

Patrolman Richardson said that the department had not as yet found where the liquor was being sold, but that it had not been sold in the beer hall.

SCHOOL POPULATION MAY PASS 10,000 MARK

The total school population of Ogden, both private and public schools, is expected to pass the 10,000 mark, according to Superintendent W. Karl Hopkins of the Ogden City school system. In the census which is now being taken and which will close during the latter part of the week, a slight increase is expected.

Last year, the total enrollment was better than 9000.

Should the enrollment reach the 10,000 mark, it will represent nearly one-third of the total population of the city.

POTATO DIGGERS ROBBED ON TRAIN

(Special Dispatch)

BLACKFOOT, Idaho, Oct. 28.—Three men from Idaho Falls were held up and robbed of $40 in the railroad yards here last evening. The men were laborers who had been working in potatoes near Idaho Falls and were going south on a freight train. The highwayman got on the train with them at Idaho Falls, and upon pulling into the yards he lined them up with a pistol, and relieved them of their money. The robber is supposed to have gone back north on a passenger train. Officers along the line have been notified to be on the lookout for the robber.

The game of billiards of Byron's time was the English six-ball game, played on a table so large that it required a room 15 by 20 feet.

"THE OLD OX DRAG ROAD"—A PLEA TO SAVE "JUMPOFF" FOR HIKERS

This is a plea, in keeping with the sentiment of protecting the native shrubbery and vanishing pine trees—those stalwart representatives of God's great outdoors. The robes in which mountain has been dressing our barren mountain slopes—these many, many moons. Struggling against great odds, against fire and vandalism—against thoughtless individuals, who in careless haste or wanton destructiveness, start fires and abandon them to take their course. Up there those hoary lords of the wood chaining their gnarled roots to a barren crest. For years we have watched the recurring blast of destruction lapping up the last vestige of green verdure—what, though it be only scrub-oak, maples, or quaking aspens, these vermillion brush of autumn no more blends her brilliant flashes over these spots, but seared and grey their skeletons rattle in the mountain air.

Hiking has become an instructive and healthful recreation to not a few of our citizens and here to the east of us the Wasatch ridges rear their walls of geologic strata. Many spots reached only by strenuous exertion are rare in beauty and seclusion. The recent fires threatened one of these secluded canyons, known to comparatively few persons. Tucked away behind the protection of towering peaks, east of Five o'Pints, is thriving a dense forest of pine ranging from the seedling to trees three feet in diameter. Down whose shady recesses a rushing mountain stream makes its way in the early summer to the perpendicular cliffs, plunging over to the thirty rocks below. Water, cold and sparkling, is to be found further back in the hills at all seasons, chilled just enough to tempt the hiker to stretch himself upon the sharp rocks and drink the full.

In the early days of the saw mill in Ogden canyon attempts were made to bring logs out of this isolated place—when the ox took the place of the horse. As evidence of this, an old ox yoke was found by the writer in Jump-off canyon. Parts of several wagons almost buried in the mud can also be seen. A well defined drag road leading to the edge of the cliff, still marks the spot where logs were shunted over the walls of the canyon. Efforts at this length were very early abandoned, however, and so the forest has been preserved in its native quietude. Accessible only on foot or horse back, and the latter only from the east and north, by way of North Ogden canyon. To make the place accessible by auto would destroy much of this quietude.

As a plea for the hiker who does not regret to leave the smell of gas and burning oil behind and take himself to the woods. Is there no place that one can tread out of doors without stepping on six cylinders for exercise? Why not reserve one place for just plain pedestrian people who like to exercise their legs as well as their feet. No limousine carriages, nor Ford bunnions are developing among the devotees of mountain climbing.

Furthermore, this particular spot is at present part of a dedicated preserve. Deer are there, grouse, pine hens and birds of all kinds, the robin is there, even in the winter. The squirrel, that sentinel of the wilderness, out his challenges from the loftiest spire of a pine tree—the blue-jay answers and all the wild life scurry for cover. Improve the trail, make the way easier.

Let's go to the mountains, to the canyons, but let's go after the fire-bugs and to those unthinking persons who load their cars down with choke-cherry branches and wild fruits and flowers. Thanks to the vigilance of the boy scouts, the forest service and organized mountain clubs, the hiking and motoring public are interesting themselves in the preservation of the beauty spots with which our mountains abound.

SUICIDE LETTER LEFT AT FALLS

Wife Refuses to Believe Until She Shall See Husband's Body.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 28.—The finding of a man's coat and hat and paper near Goat Island bridge today indicated that John E. Leaman, of Lancaster, Pa., committed suicide during the night by going over the falls. A letter was found addressed to Mrs. Helen Leaman, No. 155 Queen street, Lancaster, Pa., which reads in part:

"Dearest Helen: May God forgive me for what I am doing, but there is no other way. Your happiness requires that you be free and this is the only way to make that possible. Please try to understand. It all seems like a dream but it is only too real. 'Fame, fortune, is cheaply earned by fleeting breath.'"

"But the price of honor is the sleep of death."

Now at last you will understand that I love you."

With the letter was a newspaper clipping stating that Mrs. Helen Leaman had filed application for divorce from John E. Leaman.

WIFE DISBELIEVES. LANCASTER, Oct. 28.—I won't believe it until I see his body," declared Mrs. Helen Leaman today when told of her husband's supposed suicide at Niagara Falls. Holding a young baby in her arms, she stood in the undertaking parlors of her father, H. C. Rote, and told of her young husband's failure to support her and of alleged cruel and barbarous treatment.

"He often threatened to kill himself if I asked for a divorce," she said, amid tears. "He wouldn't work and I left him after the baby was born last February."

"His mother gave him money frequently, I thought, and he was supposed to have left for California."

Leaman was 22 years old.

LABOR TERRORISTS BLAMED FOR BLAST

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Labor terrorists were blamed by the police today for the bombing Friday night of the new home of Bernard E. Sunny, chairman of the board of directors of the Illinois Telephone company.

The structure had just been completed at an estimated cost of $100,000 by Mr. Sunny for his invalid wife, who is now in Italy. The residence was built under the wage award for building trades made by former Justice Landis, acting as labor arbitrator. Mr. Sunny was a member of the citizens' committee organized to force the award which some of the building trades refused to accept.

EX-KAISER'S FIANCE DOESN'T LIKE HOME

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Princess Hermine of Russia, who is soon to become the bride of the former German emperor, seems to feel that while his secluded home at Doorn is a nice restful place and all that she would not want to live there every day in the year. She is reported to have told William that she will be unable to stay at Doorn for more than four or five months each year.

The former Kaiser is worrying a good deal over complying with her wishes for certain alterations in his home, according to dispatches to the Daily News. Recently the princess gave him some rather comparative indications of her views as to how the place should be changed. Accordingly, William is doing his utmost to make the residence as agreeable for her as possible.
